WOUNDED PIONEERS OF OLD PIONEERS CHAS. G. GORE

How the old 3rd Pioneer Infantry reached the front line trenches and helped to put the Hun on the run in the great September drive, in spite of being shelled without warning on their way to the trenches, is told in a letter from Capt. Raymond Gore to his wife, Mrs. Lucile Gore, 413 Polk avenue.

"Our last stop coming in was shelled by the German artillery without warning. The Fourth platoon, which I also have charge of since we have lost two of our lieutenants, were assembled on their guns, which were which were preparatory to pulling out, and in the absence of the commanding officer, who could have given the order, I had to get my men out of the place 'on the double.' Thirty minutes after the place where my men had been standing was shelled to splinters, due to enemy airplanes, which had been flying over the place when we arrived, and had given the range to their artillery."

"The Hun seemed to have it in for the old Pioneers, for a short while later they were again shelled without warning while marching to the front lines."

"We were on our way to the front lines when a German plane flew low over us and gave us the range to his artillery. In a few minutes after he observed us he made for the German lines, and in 15 minutes he was back on a visit. It seemed that the whole German artillery was picking on us, but we continued on our way and reached our destination regardless."

"Our boys have learned how to fight these huns, and are well up on all their little tricks. The Germans rely on their machine guns, but we have no trouble putting them out of commission. As soon as they start popping we locate them, and a hand grenade or a sniper does the rest."

"Uncle Sam is not making any mistakes over here, and when he says, 'Go over, boys,' he has the necessary goods behind us to see that we get there."

Liver And Bacon Side By Side As "One" Meat Allowed

There's so little meat in a club sandwich that its serving is hardly a violation of the food rules regarding the serving of two kinds of meat. Liver and bacon have been a partnership for so long that they won't be divorced under the new rule.

Grapefruit sweetened over night must be whipped cream must be relegated to the discard.

No sandwiches or meat in any other form may be served with Irish stew.

No livers or mergins for cakes and pies may be made from beef or cane sugar.

Sugar in coffee must be served in single teaspoonfuls to the customer.

Dressing and hash, cooked and served separately, may still be served.

Liver, tongue, brains and similar meats formerly considered by-products must not be served with other meat orders.

These are a few of the rulings of the food administration as pointed out to hotel, restaurant and boarding house keepers at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce. The eating house men were anxious to comply with the law in every way and fired questions thick and fast at C. J. Haase, county food administrator.

The explaining of details that the meeting was called and in most instances the food administrator had a ruling ready.

A few disputed points will go to the restaurant men wanted to know if after a customer had been served two ounces of bread, allowed him for a meal, he would be allowed to eat cake, pie or anything else containing wheat, as a fine detail came before the meeting for consideration, but, apparently, the patrons of public eating houses soon will be eating by diagram.

TWO ARE REARRESTED WHEN GUN VICTIM DIES

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 22.—R. E. Denison and Henry Lanchart, local garage proprietors, were rearrested by the police last night following news of the death of a woman, Mrs. A. R. Collins, who was shot in the chest by a bullet fired from a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Collins, who was called to the scene of the shooting, reported that the car was filled with whiskey, which was being brought from Louisiana into Arkansas.

Denison and Lanchart were arrested at that time but had been released on bond.

FIND RUSSIAN CAPTIVES WORKING FOR TEUTONS

BRUGES, Oct. 22.—A fresh and striking instance of the inhumanity of German authorities has been discovered by Belgian soldiers in liberated territory. They found a large number of Russian soldiers, who were captured three years ago, at work with German labor companies.

The Russian soldiers had been treated with the utmost brutality and forced to labor behind the firing line. They were utterly demoralized by the revolution, the death of Emperor Nicholas, or the Brest-Litovsk treaty of peace.

Entrance was made while the family was asleep. The thief got no further than the back porch, which he reached by tearing off some loose lattice work. He did his work so quietly that no one was aroused.

MEXICAN WORKERS MAY BE IMPORTED TO FILL SHORTAGE

Mexican workmen may be brought to Memphis to relieve the labor shortage that is threatening to paralyze many lines of business in the city.

Relief of this nature is suggested by Dr. Joseph T. Ware, federal labor director for Tennessee, in a letter to the local labor official.

"In the various cities of the Mexican border states are many thousands of Mexicans of the middle and higher classes who are refugees from their own country on account of political conditions. These Mexicans are educated, some of them highly. Most of them are unemployed, partly because their knowledge of English is limited, and partly because they do not know how to get in touch with the business men who might be glad to utilize their services."

"Among them are to be found accountants, bookkeepers, clerks, time-keepers and ex-government employees. These people could be used in the lighter manual occupations of the city, and as foremen employed. With our business men taking more and more interest in trade with the Spanish-speaking countries, with the increasing demand for clerks who can speak and write the Spanish language, and among these people are to be found many who could qualify for each position."

"In case applications are received for this class of labor the applications should be referred to the federal directors of the Mexican border states, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, who should make suitable effort to select a Mexican qualified to fill the position."

"Further information on this subject will be transmitted from time to time as it is received by this service."

JAZZ-FLYING VICTIM DEAD FROM INJURIES

The body of Lieut. Edwin C. Little, Jr., of Park field, who died Tuesday at the field hospital from injuries received at the battle of Fenton, Ky., on Oct. 12, will be forwarded to his home in New Jersey by Thompson Bros. soon as word can be had from his mother.

The injuries which resulted fatally to Lieut. Little were a broken hip, fractured ribs, a smashed jaw, with internal injuries, resulting from a 20-foot fall while doing the "moon" for the town of Liberty, Mo., on a train and improved, but suffered a relapse.

Civilian Smith, occupying the plane with Lieut. Little, was not injured beyond a shaking up. The aviator was at his bedside when the plane crashed. The deceased flyer was noted for his intrepid courage and was one of the most popular men at Park field.

Red Cross Workers Coming To Launch Xmas Rally Here

Memphis, which is one of the vital links in the chain of large Red Cross cities, will entertain a delegation of 40 Red Cross workers when the organization will come here to inaugurate a Red Cross Christmas rally.

The city health department Wednesday received a telegram from E. R. Black, manager of the Southern division at Atlanta, asking if Memphis could entertain the delegation. Dr. Neuman Taylor, superintendent of the department, wired Black that Memphis would be ready to receive the visitors with a royal welcome.

Black said that a large, airy auditorium would be needed for the meetings, and that the visitors would wear cause masks to prevent the spread of the influenza infection.

The Red Cross proposes to raise large sums of money throughout the United States as a Christmas fund for the soldiers overseas and in American cantonments.

MORE RAIN COMING; WILL NOT BE COLDER

A cold wave that has sent thermometers to 16 above zero at Calgary, B. C., and to 26 at Winnipeg, and that threatens to reach into the Southwest and part of the South by Thursday or Friday, began moving eastward along the Canadian border Wednesday morning.

As a result local United States weather forecasters predict continued rain for Memphis Wednesday night and fair, with stationary temperature, Thursday.

A second area of high pressure has formed along the Pacific coast, which, observers believe, will move into the Southwest about the middle of the week. However, it is expected to lose its intensity as it progresses.

SMITH GETS FINE.
